How To Apply Application forms and additional information may be obtained from the Director, Personnel Division, Farmers Home Administration, U. S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C. 20250. Its a big job helping to feed over 40 million Americans. In all 50 States--as far north as Alaska, west to Hawaii--as well as the Virgin Islands, Guam, and Puerto Rico, the Consumer and Marketing Service consumer food programs are at work; bringing better diets to children, needy adults, older folks, victims of natural disasters; and helping expand markets for our abundant food production. Maybe you can help. These challenges of modern agriculture are met by a variety of programs staffed by professionals of diverse training and experience in. . . marketing economics. . . nutrition. . . public administration. . . institutional feeding. . . food retailing. . . business administration. . . social welfare administration. . . political science. . . money and banking. The national school lunch and child nutrition programs provide cash and food donations to help schools serve children nutritious low-cost lunches and now breakfasts (on a pilot basis). Administered through State and local public agencies, both programs serve needy children free of charge. The commodity distribution program donates foods--acquired under USDAs price-support and surplus-removal programs--to (he States for distribution to schools, charitable institutions, and needy families. These foods are diverted when needed for emergency feeding in areas hit by hurricanes,...
