Not illustrated. 1922 Excerpt: .other grades, so slight, however, as to be negligible except perhaps for the sixth. English Completion tests. From table 64 it may be seen that the achievements in Livingston county are consistently higher than the standards established by Trabue, the author of the tests. Attention should be called to the fact that Doctor Trabue specifically states that these figures are estimates and not based upon a sufficiently large number of testings to be set up as standards. They are undoubtedly too low. Comparison of the Livingston county scores with the others reported shows them in general ranking very well. The superiority of the Livingston county scores is greatest in the lower grades, the averages in the four tests being 2.2, 1.9, 1.3, 1.1 and 1.2 for grades 4 to 8 respectively. Paragraph reading. Table 65 permits a comparison of scores in Livingston county with the Thorndike standards, which Professor Thorndike defines as simply achievements a little above those actually made in schools under the possibly disturbing conditions of test by an outsider. For grades 4 and 5, the difference is small, but for grades 6, 7 and 8, appreciably larger. The reader is reminded that only part 1 of the test was used, comprising sets 1-4. The 1 Report of a Survey of Public Education in Nassau County, New York, p. 9. question, therefore, may well be, Were the seventh and eighth grades adequately tested? The answer is definitely in the affirmative in the case of...
