A friend said to me, yesterday, that he doubted whether I ought to be present at this meeting, that there was great excitement among the people, and indignation because of my connection with the plan to remove Central University to Danville. If this be so, then, said I, so much the greater reason for me to go; but I think you are mistaken, a Madison county audience, I know, will give me a patient and impartial hearing. In the difficult work of the past twenty-one years, I have had some sharp experiences, but I have been cheered often by the words of Mr. Gladstone on a memorable occasion. Referring to a letter written by him to the untruths and misrepresentations made regarding him in an English journal, the great Premier said: Calumny is rife, everywhere in default of argument, and if I were to spend my time in defending my past life, which has been passed in the face of my countrymen, I would have to withdraw from the defense of a great cause, which I have at heart. The only way for me to do is to go right ahead and do my work. I will not rise every now and then and explain and certify that I am not so bad as some people say and think, but...
